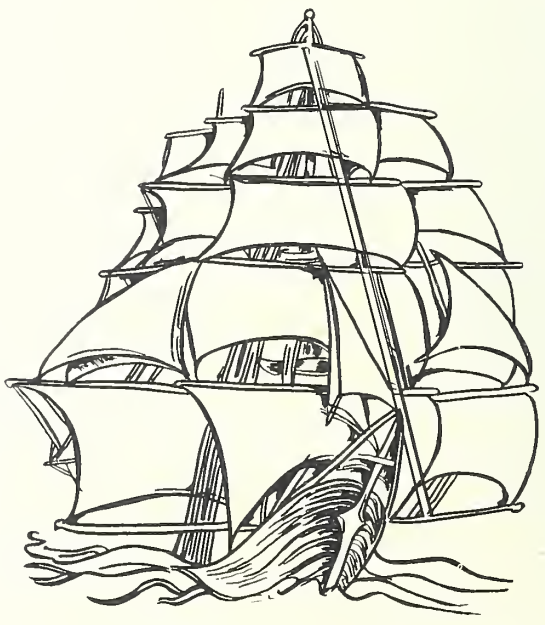
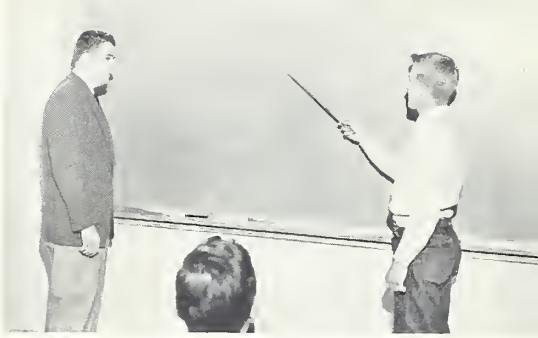
Foreword

With this volume of the "Wineprints" we are taking you on a voyage through Winecoff High School, so get your luggage and pass-ports in shipshape order. We lift anchor now. May our voyage through Winecoff prepare us for the voyage through life, and be in keeping with our motto--"Not finished, just begun."



Dedication



To our "First Mate", Mr. Gerald Melton, we dedicate this volume of the "Wineprints" because as teacher, coach, and friend he has shown us friendliness, untiring patience, understanding, and unwavering loyalty.

Class History

The Log of the S. S. Winecoff

1950-51

August — Today we launched our high school career, mates of the Freshman class of Winecoff High School.

January — We are very proud to be the first class to enter the new school building.

Summary — Under the leadership of our captains, Jerry Roberts, William Webster, and Virginia Miller, we sailed through the first year of high school. Oh yes! There were those who were thrilled by some mates of the opposite sex. Although nothing particularly outstanding happened, we were kept busy making friends, etc.

Vacation — Some of the mates need to rest; so we land to take a three month vacation.

1951-52

August — After the usual greetings to mates who haven't seen each other for many moons, things settle down to the regular routine of high school life. Some mates are beginning to become big wheels by taking part in clubs, participating in sports, and finally being recognized by the other big wheels. In fact, some of our athletes are the backbone of the athletic teams at Winecoff High School.

May — We are grateful to Captains Thomas Barringer and Reed Haywood for a most joyful year and for leading us over the rough sea of life this year.

Summary — We really are beginning to get the swing of things.

Vacation — Some of the mates rested too much during the summer vacation; so the ship will be much heavier next year, but they will have plenty of chores to do to lose weight.

1952-53

August — As we return to the S. S. Winecoff, we find that we have been too much of a strain for our Captain Thomas Barringer. He has retired in favor of a job in Florida. The years have been sailing by, and now we are Juniors, mates.

September — We are raising money for the Junior-Senior banquet by selling candy.

Some of our better mates were honored by getting into the Beta Club, the Quill and Scroll, and other organizations.

December — We were somewhat upset when a pirate attacked our ship and took with him our Captain, Miss Adelaide Sigmon. However, they didn't bother our other Captain, Mrs. Marion Durham. During our holiday we secured another leader called Miss Frances Easter.

February — We presented "Professor, How Could You?", a very successful comedy to provide money for the banquet.

April — We were host at the Junior-Senior Banquet.

Summary — A very enjoyable year.

Vacation — Resting for the grand finale.

1953-54

August — With the addition of Captain Ruby Lambdin, she and Captain Durham are ready to guide us the last year.

We are the big shots around this place; so we have many responsibilities. We fill many offices, etc.

December — We take charge of the Christmas Float.

January — This month we work on the annual.

March — This is a very active period of our trip. We are guests at the Junior-Senior Banquet, and we present the senior play.

April — As we come into the harbor of New York just prior to the Easter Holiday we decide to tour the cities of interest, New York and Washington.

May — Now comes the time when we must part, mates. May you always remember that we have "Not finished, just begun."

Summary — The voyage has ended, mates, and we find that many things have happened-things which can't be reviewed. Some mates have been added while others have fallen over board. but we can be proud in saying that we 48 seniors have completed the voyage. However, we owe all that we are, and all that we will be to our parents and teachers who have made this opportunity possible.

Class Prophecy

City Observer Inc.
Hometown, U. S. A.
May, 1964

Dear Teacher,

I was just thinking of those follow-up studies of Winecoff graduates we used to help you with when we were seniors. If you're wondering what we're doing, I'll let you in on the "latest." Working in a newspaper office (Larry Widenhouse works here too as a linotype operator) I keep up to date with all the progress of my Winecoff co-graduates by reading exchange papers.

Our public speaking training paid off for Royal Souther and Johnny Christy. Royal has been making speeches for several years and recently won a contest speaking on "How to Give a Funny Speech Without Laughing." Johnny is a radio announcer and singer. His announcing specialty is Junior Whitley's commercial on the program, "It's Later Than You Think." Junior is a director in the W. H. Whitley and Sons Funeral Home.

Working on the school paper helped pave the way for Pat Carden's career. She is writing feature stories for magazines and has just had her first novel published. She asked Ken Freeman to illustrate her book cover, but he was too busy drawing stick figures for a new book, "Learn French Verbs the Easy Way." He has been collecting ideas since his French One days in high school.

Just like in high school Jimmy Goodman, up to his ears in work, is business manager of the newspaper where I work, and in his spare time, he does a TV show, "Actions Speak Louder Than Words." His chief cameraman is Jack Hileman.

Although we used to think Larry Beaver studied much too much, we'll have to admit that it paid off in the end. He's a doctor in a large hospital and an inventor in his spare time. Anne Whitley, reaching her ambition to be a prominent figure in the medical world, is dean of the physical therapy department in a well-known nursing school. One newspaper recently listed head nurses at a local hospital, and all of them were 1954 Winecoff graduates--Cordie Mae Clay, Betty Barr, Maxine Hatley, Margie Phillips, and Barbara Fortner.

I noticed in a paper yesterday that (Mrs.) Phyllis Canupp entertained a group of secretaries, Shirley Garver, Betty Austin, Mary Frances Tucker, Pat Flowe, Margaret Johnson, Betty Joyce Pope, and Peggy Griffith, a telephone operator. Norma Eudy and Barbara Greenway are working in churches. Norma is a religious education director, and Barbara is the church secretary.

LaVonne Griffin is a medical missionary, and of all places to go, she chose Africa where she and her husband, a doctor, work together. Mrs. Kay Cook Newton is fulfilling her desire to travel also. She is in Germany with her husband, a serviceman.

Remember how attractive and neat Jewell Carpenter always appeared and that she designed and made many of her clothes? Well, she is now designing dresses for a leading clothing manufacturer, and Carole Coan is her model. Who dresses Carole's hair? Pansy Stowe, an expert beautician all the models patronize.

This sounds incredible but I read in a paper that Earl Barbee, a veterinarian, was caught speeding last week. He was rushing to Carl Measmer's farm to doctor one of Carl's cows when patrolmen Dennis Millsap and Donald Goodman stopped him. He tried to excuse his crime by saying it was a matter of life or death, but as you well know, patrolmen are resistant to sob stories.

I suppose you know Eugene Riley is playing for the Yankees' baseball team again this year. Last year he was voted the most valuable player on the team. James White is a successful high school football coach. His team has lost but one game during the past three years.

As further proof that teachers are always busy, Mildred Hartsell, an elementary teacher, gives weekly organ recitals in a local church. Peggy Smith, a math teacher, is lecturing to dime store employees on how to compute sales tax and give correct change. Shirlee Scercy's pupils are giving a piano recital Saturday evening.

With the FBI in Washington, D. C. are Max Carpenter and Nell Haynes. They aren't there for an offense--they work there. Max is an executive and Nell is his private secretary.

I guess you remember how Lois Grass used to talk about joining the Waves. She did, and went to the top--Captain and "Wave of the Year."

June Mills and Janice Little used to wonder if they could pass college math in order to start their majors, sociology. They were both successful enough to pass and get their masters degrees besides. Janice is now a YWCA recreation director and a camp counselor each summer. June is doing welfare work in the city slums.

Ken Willis a big drive-in operator, is campaigning for "bigger and better movies." He is touring the nation and has Donald Dunlap to offer technical advice to prospective drive-in owners.

If you ever visit this little town, you'll find all types of fountain drinks and snacks in Gayle Phillips' drug store, a favorite hang-out for the high school crowd.

Our class really tried a variety of occupations. I hope learning about our successes will make you happy and proud that you had a hand in moulding our futures.

Last Will And Testament

Whereas, we the Senior Class of Winecoff High School of the year nineteen hundred and fifty four are about to leave these familiar grounds, where we have spent so many happy and worthwhile hours under the careful guidance and instruction of the esteemed faculty, we do hereby, being of sound mind and judgment, publish this last will and testament.

SECTION I

Article 1. To the faculty and principal, we leave our heartfelt thanks for all the things they have done for us.

Article 2. To the Junior Class, we leave our Senior dignity, our rooms, our place in assembly, and all the privileges that go with being a Senior.

Article 3. To the Sophomore and Freshman Classes, we leave our good times and love for Winecoff. Build today for your tomorrow.

SECTION II

The following may seem trivial bequests, but we hope they will be accepted and treasured as valuable assets. We hope you will look upon them as a token of everlasting friendship.

Betty Austin--my place in the Beta Club to my niece Sharon Austin, and my so-called title "Bete" to Dinah Carden.

Earl Barbee--my ability to come to school every day for twelve years and my football uniform to Jerry Whitley.

Betty Jean Barr--my seat in the senior class to my sister Lucy, and all my good times at Winecoff to my sister Carol.

Pat Carden--my superlative "Most Intellectual" to my sister Dinah Carden, and my ability to get out of class, to my sister Barbara.

Jewell Carpenter--my superlative "Most Talented" to my brother Everett, and position as Editor of the Annual to Doris Brigman.

Max Carpenter--my football uniform to Gene Pipkins and the Student Council Presidency to Bennie Baucom.

Phyllis Canupp--my good times at Winecoff to my brother, James.

Johnny Christy--my position as a four year man on the Debating Team and the ability to win a letter in my Junior year to my brother, Jimmy.

Cordie May Clay--my seat in the senior class and ability to be a senior to my brother, Frank and my sister, Naomi.

Carol Coan--my letter-girl uniform to my sister, Rachel, knowing that she will have to take up a few seams.

Donald Dunlap--my basketball managership to Buddy Carpenter and my seat on the bench during football season to Paul Norris.

Norma Eudy--my place on the Annual Staff to my cousin Barbara and my good times at Winecoff to Nancy Litaker.

Pat Flowe--my position as secreatry of the Beta Club to Jean Newell and my position as chief majorette to Barbara McCool.

Barbara Fortner--my ability to get a cap and gown to my brother, Kenneth.

Kenneth Freeman--my ability to go to Parker's Store to Sammy Mercer and my position on the football team to Jerry White.

Janice Little--my superlative "Most Athletic" to Sue Chewning and good times as a senior to Nancy Hatley and Wayne White.

Carl Measmer--my superlative "Most Dependable" to Johnny Measmer and my ability to get along with teachers to Susan Measmer.

June Mills--my seat in the Beta Club to my sister, Jo-Ann and my good times to Barbara Edsell.

Dennis Millsapp--my ability to get along with women to Jimmy Moore and my title "Millstone" to my sister, Loretta.

Ruth Neisler--my position as co-editor of the Winepress along with all the other dirty work to Mike Kizziah.

Kay Newton--my superlative "Best Looking" to Joey Gwaltney and my good times in the senior class to my niece Dianne.

Gayle Phillips--my superlative "Best Dressed" to Jimmy Cox.

Margie Phillips--my ability to miss assembly and get by with it to my sister, Barbara and my good times at Winecoff to my cousin, Shirley.

Betty Joyce Pope--my place in the Library Club to my sister, Jane.

Eugene Riley--my baseball uniform No. 4 to my brother Ray and my ability to go to Parker's to anyone who can get away with it.

Shirlee Scercy--my good times to Ravenell Melton and my title "Fat" to Jean Fink.

Peggy Smith--my seat in the senior class to my brother, Edward and my good times at Winecoff to Barbara Nations.

Royal Southers--my superlative "Best Sport" to anyone who gets it.

Pansy Stowe--my ability to get along with people to my brothers, Grady and Jimmy.

Mary Frances Tucker--my seat in the senior class and my ability to get along with my teachers to my sister Elvia and hope she enjoys her years here as much as I have.

James White--my football uniform and my superlative "Most Athletic" to my brothers, Wayne and Jerry.

Anne Whitley--my position as President of the senior class and my superlative "Wittiest" to my brother, Jerry.

Junior Whitley--my football uniform to Sammy Mercer and my superlative "Most Likely to Succeed" to Bennie Baucom.

Larry Widenhouse--my good times at Winecoff to my brother, Michael and to Darrell Bost, the troubles of being a senior.

Kenneth Willis--my ability to get into trouble to Carl Kellis and my football headgear to Doug Brines.

SECTION III

In conclusion, we want to say that, although we are leaving Winecoff, it will always remain a place of cherished memories. We would like to say to our many dear friends, "A fond embrace, a sad farewell, until we meet again."

Staff

Lew White, freshman editor; June Mills, snapshot editor; Ruth Neisler, activity editor; Pat Flowe, assistant; Anne Whitley, sports editor; Betty Austin, assistant; Pat Carden, art editor; Carole Coan, assistant; Mildred Hartsell, elementary editor; Betty Barr, assistant; Pansy Stowe, Royal Southers, advertising layouts; Shirley Garver, Kay Newton, Lois Grass, Phyllis Cannupp, Margaret Johnson, LaVonne Griffin, Shirley Scercy, Typists.

Mr. Wilhelm, associate advisor for the Winepress staff, explains details of the school paper layout.

Typists prepare copy for the printer.

Jimmy Goodman, business manager, and Wynona Fink and Vergie Furr, assistants, solicit ads to finance publication of The Winepress.

Winepress Staff

The Winepress is published six times each year. This year a special mimeographed paper was prepared by freshman staff members for the elementary school. The staff includes Pat Carden, Ruth Neisler, co-editors; Mildred Hartsell, assistant; Patsy Allen, news editor; Mike Kizziah, assistant; Jimmy Goodman, business manager; Vergie Furr, Wynona Fink, assistants; Paul Barnhardt, sports editor; Janice Little, assistant; Anne Whitley, feature editor; Pat Flowe, June Mills, Shirley Garver, assistants; Junior Whitley, circulation manager; Betty Austin, exchange editor; Doris Brigman, grade news editor; Bennie Baucom, Sue Misenheimer, Verna Tarleton, Nancy Yates, Bill Furr, John Garver, Jerry Gray, Jo Ann Mills, Betty Jo Perkins, Phyllis Schriver, Bobbie Lew White, Wyenne Winecoff, reporters; Mrs. Shuford, Mr. Wilhelm, advisors.

Ruth Neisler and Pat Carden, co-editors, and Jimmy Goodman, business manager, discuss plans for the paper with Mrs. Shuford, staff advisor.

Circulation manager, Junior Whitley, distributes the finished product to the student body.

Student Council

The Student Council plays a vital part in the life of the Winecoff students. It is representative of the high school student body, each homeroom being allowed to choose one representative. The officers are chosen by secret ballot in a spring election. At left are Student Council officers, Bennie Baucom, vice president; Sue Chewning, secretary; Max Carpenter, president; Doris Brigman, treasurer.

Mr. Hart administers the oath of office to Student Council representatives Bill Furr, Carl Measmer, Mildred Hartsell, Patsy Allen, Jean Newell, Nancy Yates, Ravanelle Melton, Patsy Stimson, Bobbie Lew White, Libby Graham, and Wyenne Winecoff.

Max Carpenter, president; Sue Chewning, secretary; and Mrs. Durham, advisor, leave for the State Student Council Convention held at Albemarle in the fall.
